

Formed in 1982, Cry Before Dawn became one of Ireland's best loved bands, winning the prestigious IRMA award for "Best Newcomer" 1987, and "Best Irish Group", in 1989. Their two albums "Crimes Of Conscience" and "Witness For The World" went double platinum and they developed a reputation for being one of Ireland's most passionate live bands. Their music is enhanced with Uilleann Pipes, Irish flute and whistles, a sound that set them apart from their contemporaries.

Fast forward to 2011, after more than 18 years apart and due to demand from long time fans, the band completed a highly successful and critically acclaimed reunion tour of Ireland and UK. The "Best of Cry Before Dawn" CD released to coincide with the tour reached no. 12 in the Irish album charts. The band also produced a live album "Live At The Opera House" from the two shows recorded at Wexford Opera House during the tour.

Cry Before Dawn will begin 2013 with the release of a new single, their first studio recording since 1992, as well as making announcements for live shows throughout the year. The new single sees the band come back with a fresh exciting sound that is sure to surprise and delight their loyal fans and appeal to a new audience. The band still has the passion and energy that saw them forge a special place in the hearts of their fans. It's with this renewed strength and conviction, that Cry Before Dawn look to 2013 with relish. Bring it on.....
